SOX WIN SLAM FOR B'S RYAN

PLAY BY PLAYDETAILS ON BACK PAGE

Out at First—Yankee Catcher Yogi Berra takes a running leap at first base in the first inning of today's game at Fenway Park, but it was in vain as Jake Jones, Sox first sacker, touched the bag on the throw from Johnny Pesky. Tommy Henrich, Yankees' right fielder, hit his 15th homer of the season in this frame with Snuffy Stirnweiss on base. Yanks scored two runs in the inning.

Hughes Probers Gag Own Ex-Aide

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—In a stormy verbal clash the Senate war investigating committee today denied Hugh Fulton, its former counsel, an opportunity to answer on the stand charges levelled against him by Chairman Brewster (R.) of Maine. Chairman Ferguson (R.) of Michigan of a subcommittee inquiring into Howard Hughes' $40,000,000 wartime plane contracts, gaveled down an attempt by Fulton to make a statement. Fulton, who served the committee as counsel when President Truman, then a senator, was its chairman, and later as counsel for Hughes, shouted that he would "take my case to the press." He announced he would hold a news conference this afternoon in his office here.

Fulton told reporters he desired time before the committee to answer "certain falsehoods which have gone into the record about me."

Brewster produced before the committee this week a memorandum of George Meader, former committee counsel, saying that Fulton had approached him and attempted to have the investigation of Hughes' contracts limited to the technical aspects of the case.

The memorandum said that Fulton advised Meader against making any recommendation to the committee, but leave solely to Brewster the decision whether the group would go ahead with the inquiry into Hughes' activities.

Brewster testified that he believed this was an effort to "lay a trap for me," inasmuch as Hughes later had accused him of offering to call off the inquiry if Hughes would agree to a merger of his TWA airline with Pan-American airways.

After a short conference with Ferguson and Sen. Pepper (D) Florida, only committee members present, Fulton took over the witness stand and attempted to make a statement after Ferguson announced the committee was denying the former counsel's request that he be permitted to testify.

Ferguson said that "it is apparent if the committee is going to get along with the case" involving Hughes, it could not take testimony on what he has termed the "side issue" of the agreement between Brewster and Hughes.

The committee previously had decided to close the Brewster-Hughes matter.

As Fulton attempted to make his statement, Ferguson pounded his gavel, and shouted that "the committee has decided that your application is denied and the decision is final."

"I asked permission—" Fulton said.

"THIS IS FINAL"

Again Ferguson pounded his gavel.

"They have declined even to hear the application to be heard and that is not in line with any previous committee procedure," Fulton got in.

"Mr. Fulton, this is final," Ferguson shouted, pounding away.

"I have no alternative but to give it to the press," Fulton shot back.

Hughes has testified previously that he employed Fulton to represent him, but later ended the employment in a dispute over fees. He said a bill of $20,000 submitted by the former committee counsel finally was settled for $10,000.

Outside the committee room, Fulton told reporters that at the request of Ferguson he earlier had agreed not to ask to appear as a witness in the Hughes-Brewster feud after being asked to testify.

"But Sen. Brewster got on the radio again last night and repeated certain false statements that I previously had objected to," Fulton said.

Globe Girdling Solo Flier Reaches Tokyo

TOKYO, SUNDAY, Aug. 10 (AP)—William P. Odom, bidding for a new around-the-world flight record, landed his converted A-26 "Bombshell" at Yokota airfield, 30 miles wes of Tokyo, at 3:28 a. m. today, (1:28 p. m., Saturday, (EST), 48 hours and 35 minutes out of Chicago.

When he passed over Shanghai he was 44 hours and 59 minutes out of Chicago, where he had taken off at 12:53 p. m. EST, Thursday in an effort to halve the old solo around-the-world record of the late Wiley Post.

Odom's decision to fly direct from Calcutta to Tokyo without stopping at Shanghai was not known until he swept over this city in a starry but moonless sky.

As he drew near, the runway was outlined with flares, and lunch for the flier and fuel for his plane were ready, but Odom reported by radio that he would not land.

There was good weather all the way to Tokyo, with a favoring wind.

FOLLOW WORLD-FLIGHT PILOT'S PROGRESS—Mrs. William P. Odom, wife of the round-the-world flier, and her children, Rochelle, 6, and Ronnie, 3, read headlines of his progress. The Chicago flier took off from Karachi, India, today, after making record flight.

OFFICERS HATED HIM; SAYS HUGHES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Howard Hughes testified today he decided upon entertainment for Army officers and other officials after, he said, he learned they had a hatred for him as "being stuck up."

When Hughes said he could not identify these officials immediately, Chairman Ferguson recessed the hearing until 9 a. m. Monday. But Hughes said his "bad feeling" prevented him from getting contracts for the production of pursuit planes "faster than any the Army or Navy had." He testified that the Jap Zero was copied from a speedy monoplane he designed and flew several years ago, yet despite this, he said, the Army let the contract for what has been known as the P-38 to the Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

On the question of the huge flying boat, Hughes testified that "this plane crossed a barrier in size—that the control system can no longer be operated by a man even in an emergency." Control system trouble has held up test flight, he said.

HOWARD HUGHES, AIRCRAFT MAGNATE, FACES SENATE
Character Studies of Witness as He Defies Quizzers

Sen. Brewster Here, Mum on Fulton Blast

U. S. Sen. Owen Brewster, described by Howard Hughes as "America's first aerial hitchhiker," arrived at Logan Airport from Washington aboard an American Airliner and immediately announced he had paid his own fare.

The Senator also posed smilingly for photographers with Miss Betty MacLachlan of New York, attractive stewardess aboard the plane.

He said he planned to stop over in Boston briefly and take the 5:30 p. m. plane to Bangor. From there, he said, he would go to his home in Zions Hill, Dexter, to vacation for the rest of the month.

The Senator explained that his presence was not required in Washington as the War Investigating Committee continued its investigation. He explained the matter was in the hands of the sub-committee, headed by Sen. Homer Ferguson, of Michigan, and that he (Brewster) was chairman of the full committee.

He expressed satisfaction at the progress of the hearing and quipped:

"Where there is smoke, there must be some mire."

(Some of his listeners insisted he meant Meyer).

He declined comment on the attack on him by Hugh Fulton, former war investigating committee counsel, in Washington today as a result of a radio interview in which the Senator took part last night.

Fulton was prevented from making a statement before the sub-committee today after he had demanded an opportunity to answer "certain falsehoods." Fulton said he had no recourse but to give it to the press and Brewster said he would wait to see what the former had to say before commenting.

Brewster's plane, which started late from Washington, was delayed further on reaching Boston. It was forced to circle the airport for a half-hour before its turn came to come in for a landing. The delays made it almost 2½ hours late.

Dying Auto Racer Walks To Ambulance

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—A cheer of relief went up from 5000 spectators when Frank Stauber, 32, climbed from the wreckage of his midget auto racer and took 40 paces to an ambulance.

They were watching a dying man walk.

Stauber's car had crashed through a canvas retaining wall in Hansen Park Stadium, a rope striking him across the throat, breaking his neck and virtually shutting off his breathing.

He died in the ambulance and an attending physician said the oxygen in Stauber's lungs and blood stream enabled him to walk to the ambulance.

Marshall Agrees To Reich-Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—State Sec. Marshall notified France today that the United States is prepared to agree without delay to a three-power meeting on raising the level of industry in the British-American sector of Germany.

Participants would be England, France and the United States.

In a note released by the State Department, Marshall also stated the United States is prepared to receive and discuss French views on manageemnt and control of the Ruhr coal mines.

CITRONELLA GOT HER---PLENTY!

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 9 (AP)—Police were asked today to look out for a dark-complexioned woman smelling of citronella oil and who, a Huntington housewife said, seemed to have bewitched her into parting with her silverware.

The housewife, Mrs. Pearl Hayes told police "I couldn't bring myself around to stopping" the woman whose odor of aromatic salve and citronella "seemed to get into my nose and stay there."

The woman, Mrs. Hayes said, appeared at her front door, and after much conversation asked if she would "like to have her fortune told and her valuables blessed."

Then the unbidden guest whipped out a handkerchief exuding the strange perfume and, in Mrs. Hayes' words, "I just let her in; I didn't seem to have the power to keep her out."

She remained powerless when the visitor asked to bless the silverware, picked it up along with a large supply of bath towels and disappeared.

Mate Slain in Love Kidnap, Wife Says

HOULTON, Me., Aug. 9—An a ttractive, 30-year-old mother of six children charged today that she was kidnaped two months ago in Kentucky by a farmhand who murdered her husband and has forced her at gunpoint to pose as his wife, threatening her with death if she revealed his crime.

Mrs. Martha Broughton of Ellix Creek, Ky., sobbingly told Sheriff Jasper L. Lycett that she has lived in terror since June 6 with John Mills, 49. Mrs. Broughton and Mills have been living here since early July. The woman said she saw Mills kill her husband.

As a result of her story, Maine authorities contacted Kentucky police and were informed both Mrs. Broughton and Mills were wanted on a charge of murder. Sheriff Lycett also notified FBI officials to investigate the young mother's kidnap charge.

Mills and Mrs. Broughton were arraigned in Houlton municipal court today as fugitives from justice and were ordered held without bail for Kentucky authorities.

DENIES KIDNAP CHARGE

Deputy Sheriff George L. Baker said Mills had admitted shooting Broughton, but denied the kidnap charges. He said he had been a boarder at the Broughton farm.

Mrs. Broughton said her husband was shot to death on their farm last June 6 while he and she were working in the field. While her husband lay dead at her feet, she said, Mills pointed the still smoking gun at her and forced her to flee with him to the woods. They lived for several days in the hills, she continued, then boarded a bus for Ohio. They gradually moved East to Maine.

SHE BLURTS OUT STORY

Arriving in Houlton the first week of July, they took a room in a Bangor st. lodging house, where they have lived since. Night and day, the woman reported, she has been living under constant threat of death. She said Mills had threatened to throw her body in the Meduxnekeag river.

Finally, lack of funds forced her to seek work as a housekeeper and Thursday, on her first day of freedom, she blurted out her story to her employer, Miss Aimee Little. Authorities were called in and the arrest of the pair followed.

Kentucky officials informed County Atty. James Archibald that they would start immediately for Maine to return the couple to face a murder charge. He said Mrs. Broughton's six children were being cared for by relatives in Knox County, Ky.

Governor Attends Mandell Funeral

Triple funeral services were held in Christ Episcopal Church, Hamilton, today for Thomas P. Mandell, 46, and his daughters, Harriot, 19, and Ann, 20, socialite victims of Thursday's tragic plane crash in Everett.

Friends and relatives jammed the tiny edifice while 300 more stood outside in the rain. Bearers included Gov. Bradford, Earl Carrier, of Washington, D. C. business associated of Mandell; Thomas E. Proctor, 2d., of Hamilton; Neil W. Rice of Ipswich; Charles G. Rice, 2d., of Hamilton; John Hollaster, Peter Eastcott and Richard Bowditch, all of Boston.

Rev. John Hugh Harris, former assistant rector of Trinity Church, Boston, officiated.

The Mandells and John Nelson Borland Pell, pilot, were killed instantly when their chartered plane struck an oil plant chimney in Everett.

Bugsy's Girl Goes Snooty, Spurns Press

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 9 (AP)—Virginia Hill, tempestuous, black-haired girl friend of slain gambler Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, arrived at Miami airport from New York and Paris today and was taken in a police patrol car to her home at Sunset Island.

She refused to answer questions from newsmen.

"I'm not talking to you reporters," she said. "I have absolutely nothing to say to any of you. You Americans started all this anyway."

"NOTHING TO SAY"

When newsmen persisted, she spat out:

"I have nothing to say. Don't you understand English."

Siegel, 42-year-old night club operator, was shot to death last June 20 in Miss Hill's spacious home in Beverly Hills, Cal., while Miss Hill was vacationing in Paris.

Yesterday upon arrival in Boston from Paris, Miss Hill told an airlines passenger representative:

"The press has been writing stories about me for eight weeks. They have been making up stories. Even if my tongue was to be cut off I wouldn't talk to them."

She was wearing a beige suit and carrying a fox-fur trimmed coat and brown leather bag. In her arms was a stack of magazines. She appeared weary and her makeup was askew.

Miss Hill's brother, Chick, 21, and her secretary, Miss Jerri Mason, who came here in advance to open the home for Miss Hill, appeared as the police car drove up.

Both rushed up and started to embrace Miss Hill, but she spotted a cameraman and called out sharply:

"Chick, get into the house."

He obeyed. The Misses Hill and Mason followed quickly.

Miss Hill's Miami Beach home is on Sunset Island No. 1, one of a group of three man-made islets a couple of miles north of Palm Island, site of the late Al Capone's villa.

Nancy Perini Rites Attended by Throng

MEGANSETT, Aug. 9—Immaculate Conception Church here was thronged with tearful friends and relatives of 4-year-old Nancy Perini today for the funeral of the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perini of Wellesley, who drowned Thursday in the harbor here, directly in front of her parents' summer home.

A mass of the Angels was celebrated by Rev. John Casey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Woods Hole. Scores of Nancy's playmates and their parents watched mournfully as the funeral procession began the long sad journey to St. Stephen's Cemetery in Framingham.

Nancy, niece of Lou Perini, president of the Boston Braves, disappeared from the back yard of her summer home Thursday afternoon. Her body was recovered in the water 13 hours later while police officials were launching a kidnap hunt.

The girl was the youngest of four children, Charles, 10, Bartholomew, 7, and Audrey, 5.

Worcester Fare Held as Cab Bandit

SOUTHBORO, Aug. 9—Harold Moreau, 20, of Worcester, arrested after a struggle today with State Trooper Thomas J. Fitzgerald of Framingham, was booked at Holden barracks on a charge of armed robbery of Arthur Curtin, 41, Worcester taxicab driver, who identified him as the man who robbed him of $30. A similar amount was found in Moreau's pocket, State police said.

Curtin said Moreau hired his taxicab in Worcester and in Paxton held him up with a .32 calibre revolver, then ordering him to drive on to Boston. Here, however, he was ordered from the cab.

Trooper Fitzgerald found Moreau walking along the highway and subdued him after a struggle.

60 Women Ply Bookies' Trade in Hub, Police Say

Boston detectives, delving into the activities of gamblers handling lottery and illegal horse racing bets, estimated today that some 60 feminine bookies are operating in the city.

They range from girls who accept part-time or temporary work in the rackets to middle-aged women who make it their livelihood, are seen every business day in the downtown area, investigators said.

They visit the principal buildings and on their daily round contact a varied clientele of women customers, from clerks and salesgirls to career women, the detectives asserted.

Most of their feminine trade is interested in the lottery or "playing the numbers," and for the most part they shun the more complicated business of studying horse race forms and trying to pick a winner at distant tracks, the sleuths declared.

Some of the "bookies in skirts" work at clerical job anxious to supplement their income with a "cut" from the amounts they collect from their lottery customers, probers say.

Others are "going steady" with a bookie or married to a man in the rackets, often of the higher ups, it was said.

In the past two years the feminine portion of the city's 1000-odd bookies has had about as little luck in dodging arrest as their male counterparts.

Arrests of women on charges connected with lotteries or the "numbers racket" run about 5 per cent of the total number of arrests, statistics showed.

But on the arrests for taking bets on horse races, the women are far behind, with only about 2 per cent of all "pinches."

Meanwhile, Collector of Internal Revenue Denis W. Delaney announced federal income tax investigators will check up soon on "big shot" gamblers and bookies.

He said agents are also keeping a close tabulation of big winners at New England race tracks with the intention of checking their returns next March.

Delaney also stated the big gamblers tend to overpay rather than cheat the government on income tax returns, preferring not to "get tangled up with Mr. Whiskers (Uncle Sam)."

Dies in South Boston Fight

Boy Arraigned Fist-Fight Death

A 15-year-old Dorchester boy was arraigned in South Boston court today on a manslaughter complaint resulting from the fist-fight death of Paul V. Shea, 16, of Gates st., South Boston. The boy's case was continued to Friday's juvenile session to await the medical examiner's report.

The victim was pronounced dead at City Hospital after police found him unconscious at Old Colony ave. and Columbia rd. Police quoted the youthful defendant as stating he and Shea "squared off" while members of their rival gangs cheered them.

"We struck each other a couple of times," the boy said. "Then I hit him under the heart. He clutched himself and dropped. We all ran."

Britain's Movie Tax May Close Theaters

By JACK SMITH

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Britain's heavy tax on American motion pictures may have sown the seed of British-American disunity, a top-ranking American film executive told the British press today.

Cheever Cowdin of Universal Films, Inc., said to his news conference:

"The British announcement, which to all intents and purposes confiscates 75 per cent of all American film earnings, has sent a shudder through every man and woman in the industry and will be followed by deep resentment on the part of the American public."

Banner headlines in the British press informed the people they would be deprived of Hollywood movies, one of their chief forms of escape from the troubles of austerity-ridden Britain.

All other news was subordinated to word that the Motion Picture Export Ass'n in the United States had banned film shipments to Britain because of the new tax. Theater operators were predicting many would have to close down.

Cowdin said the tax "strikes at the very roots of trading between Britain and America." He added:

"We cannot help asking if it is not something which is going to cause a lot of harm and disunity."

Cowdin is chairman of the board of Universal and has close trade ties with the J. Arthur Rank organization, Britain's largest movie firm. Rank himself said the American ban was no surprise.

News that Hollywood, embittered by Britain's new 75 percent tax on film earnings, will keep its thrillers and heart-throbbers away from the British market produced varied emotions.

"It's really rather shoking, isn't it?" asked a pretty, young telephonist, who didn't appear shocked at all. "I'm afraid I'm going to miss Dick Haymes."

A young army officer said:

"Jolly good thing for the country, I'd say. It will help us keep the King's English pure.

"It will increase juvenile delinquency," said a mechanic. "The kids will have no place to go to stay out of trouble."

IRON CURTAIN?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (INS)—Rep. Worley (D.) of Texas declared that British action in levying a 75 per cent tax on American films was the "beginning of an iron curtain" being erected around the British Isles.

Wordley charged the tax amounted to ban on American-made films" and suggested the United States might bar English films in retaliation.

Vermont Man Weds Reno Faro Dealer

RENO, Nev., Aug. 9—A scholary young Vermonter who came here to study sociogy was honeymooning today with an attractive New York divorcee who came here for marital freedom and stayed on to deal roulette at a gambling hall and go to college.

Miss Adele Marsh, 32, was married to Charles E. Murdough, 30, of Brattleboro, Vt., in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Brewster Adams.

After the honeymoon, she said, she will go back to her old job of handling the roulette wheel at a downtown club on week-ends. Her husband expects to complete his sociology course at the University of Nevada here in two more years.

She enrolled at the university shortly after receiving a divorce decree from John Von Karoly, member of a prominent Hungarian family. On graduating, she was awarded a gold medal for scholastic brilliance.

Adele said that while awaiting her decree she dropped into the gaming halls and began dealing to while away the time. When she found she could earn between $30 and $60 every week-end, she turned to the gaming table to finance her through college.

But, she said, she kept right on wearing her wedding ring after the divorce, to protect herself against wolves in the gambling hall, or as she puts it, "to ward off unnecessary contact."

"Some people think that when they lose their money, they should get the dealer," she observed.

Plane, 3 Aboard, Hunted by Diver

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—A diver sought today to locate the sunken wreck of a two-engined American Airlines experimental plane which plunged into Bowery Bay off La Guardia airport last night, carrying three of the five crewmen aboard to their deaths.

The plane crashed while the pilot was attempting an emergency landing shortly after taking off for Buffalo. Two members of the crew were rescued by a police launch in the few minutes before the plane settled in 45 feet of water.

A spokesman for the airline said the plan, "a flying laboratory" used for radar tests, overshot the field while attempting the emergency landing. The pilot had circled back to the field after reporting that one engine had failed.

Battle of the Bats (3 of 'em) Staged in Newton Nursery

Mr. and Mrs. Israel Cohen, Mandalay rd., Newton Center, usually affable hosts, made no attempt to conceal their dislike for three unexpected guests who paid them a flying visit early today.

The method the guests used to enter the house was the first thing that aroused the Cohens' displeasure. Nobody but a bounder would choose the open window of the nursery. Nobody but a bounder—or a bat, that is.

Papa Bat, apparently seeking lodging for his wife and child who cruised along behind him at a respectful distance, glided into the nursery and awakened Mrs. Doris Segal, here from Miami to visit her daughter, Mrs. Cohen.

Her scream aroused the Cohens. Mr. Cohen seized a blanket and a broom and squared off. Then in flew Mama Bat and Baby Bat.

Mr. Cohen challenged all three.

While Patrolmen Manley Kiley and James J. McManus, Jr., joined the battle, Cohen trapped and disposed of Papa Bat.

Mama and child decided discretion was the better part of valor and flew away.

Ex-Kaiser's Stepson Thinks Reds Stole Royal Jewels

BERLIN, Aug. 9 (AP)—U. S. agents launched an intensive investigation today of the mysterious disappearance of part of a fabulous collection of German crown jewels, and a stepson of the last Kaiser said he thought the Russians were involved. Prince Ferdinand valued the missing items at $2,000,000 and the entire collection at $5,000,000. American criminal investigation department agents previously reported the missing portion was worth more than $500,000 and the whole collection of 95 pieces about $1,000,000.

The jewels belonged to Ferdinand's mother, Princess Hermine, widow of Kaiser Wilhelm II. They were smuggled from the Russian-occupied zone of Germany, and some quarters here speculated that the Russians might demand that the balance of the treasure, now in American custody, be returned to their zone.

DIED IN RED ZONE

American agents said a young woman friend of the 34-year-old prince spirited the jewels from Princess Hermine, at Frankfurt-on-Oder, to her son in the American zone. Princess Hermine died in the Russian-zone city Thursday.

The prince said he had submitted to a truth serum test to support the version of the mystery he unfolded to American authorities.

The prince said the jewels vanished from his trunk while he was living in the American sector of Berlin.

"Troubles never come singly," said the prince. "And now mamma is dead and I can't even go to her funeral because I am sure the Russians would arrest me because I am anti-Communist."

As he spoke, his younger sister, Princess Caroline, came bursting into the smartly furnished apartment. She said she had just returned from Frankfurt-on-Oder, where "the German police—those Communists — arrested me and made me turn back to Berlin."

SHADOWED BY REDS

The thin, nervous prince, who lost the sight of his left eye as the result of a war wound, said he was sure someone had told the Russians that the jewels were smuggled out of the Soviet zone and that NKVD (Soviet Secret Police) agents had been shadowing him.

The American agents said the gems had been smuggled out by a young woman friend of the prince who "risked her neck." Ferdinand was to convert the valuable into cash for investments in western Germany, the investigators said, but 29 of the best pieces vanished before he could dispose of them.

The prince, insisting he did not know when or just where the treasured disappeared, submitted to truth serum.

"The serum was injected by a doctor flown here from Wiesbaden and it knocked me out for six hours," he said. "All I could tell them was that there were two keys to the trunk and I always kept both of them with me on a single string.

"One day between morning and night I lost one of those keys out of the brief case I was carrying with me, and that night I noticed that 29 of the best pieces were gone."

The prince said American CID agents had used "Gestapo methods in questioning me and my wife." He referred to his divorced wife, with whom he recently became reconciled.

Ferdinand said the agents questioned them for hours at a time.

However, O. R. Carluggi, of Bloomfield, N. J., director of the CID denied the prince's charge, saying "we treated the prince very kindly."

"He submitted to the truth serum test voluntarily after consulting his doctor, and when his wife took the injection, she had her lawyer present," he said.

ACCUSED IN SLAYING—Mrs. Anne McMath, 26-year-old wife of Prosecutor Sidney McMath of Hot Springs, Ark., who has been named slayer of his father. The young matron allegedly shot and killed the man as he threatened her while in a drunken rage.

Troop Train Hits Mine in Palestine

JERUSALEM, Aug. 9 (AP)—The crack "Egypt Express," bound from Cairo to Haifa with British troops returning from leave, was blasted off the tracks by a mine at Wilhelmina, near Lydda, today, an official report said. The engineer and fireman were buried beneath the debris.

MARSEILLE, FRANCE, Aug. 9 (AP)—Three British ships carrying 4400 Jewish immigrants have refueled and returned to Port-De-Bouc for a voyage to a still undisclosed harbor.

An official British source in London said no decision had been made on the ultimate destination of the refugees, who attempted unsuccessfully last month to go to Palestine aboard the ship Exodus 1947. They refused to debark when returned to France.

7 Fliers' Deaths Cancel British Carrier Flights

BRISBANE, Australia, Aug. 9 (AP)—Flying exercises from the British aircraft carriers Glory and Theseus were cancelled today after seven men were killed and seven planes destroyed in a series of crashes since July 20. Officials attributed the accidents to lack of practice.

Mature in Role At Mock Trial

With Victor Mature appearing in person in the dramatic role of defendant, a mock trial will be held at Symphony Hall next Wednesday evening, Aug. 13, as a sequel to "The Long Night," the film of love and murder currently showing at the RKO Memorial Theater.

Mature will replace Guy Madison, originally scheduled for the role but prevented by Hollywood commitments from appearing here. The film role is played by Henry Fonda. Jacqueline White will replace Barbara Bel Geddes of the screen version as heroine, and Ann Dvorak will appear in person to play the role she so vividly portrays in the picture.

Tickets are already on sale for the mock trial at Symphony Hall, priced from $3 to $1, and because of the heavy advance demand it is urgent to procure the best seats as soon as possible. All proceeds from the tickets will be donated to the Children's Hospital Fund.

The trial will be broadcast between 8 and 9 p. m. over the Yankee Network, and both spectators and listening audience will serve as jurors. For this reason, those who see "The Long Night" before attending the trial of the hero will have the advantage of understanding the circumstances and tragic problems which drove him to murder.

Funeral Rites Held For Eugene Good

Funeral services for Eugene J. Good, 64, one-time Boston National League baseball player and brother of Arthur J. Good, assistant managing editor of the Daily Record, were held today with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury.

The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Frederick Minigan with the Rev. Charles J. Ring, pastor, as deacon, and the Rev. John T. Dunn, subdeacon. Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery.

Many State and city officials, who had grown up with him in the Roxbury district, and a number of old-time big league and semi-pro baseball players were in attendance at the funeral.

TWO BEAUTIES

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 9 (AP)—Misses Jean and Jane Cunningham, identical twins, were named "Miss Tennessee" last night to represent the state in the national beauty contest at Atlantic City in September.

They must compete in the national finals as individuals, however, according to a ruling of the national committee directors.

The blonde girls will be 19 years old next week, are five feet 6¾ inches tall, weigh 110 pounds and always dress alike. They operate a dancing school here.

Their father is George Cunningham, former Detroit and Chattanooga baseball pitcher. The mother is not living.

Maine Bus Drivers To Strike Tuesday

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 9 (AP)—Maine Central Transportation Co., operating buses in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, reported today formal notification by its drivers of intent to strike next Tuesday night for wage increases.

The 60 drivers are affiliated with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen whose agreement with the company expired in June.

Watch-Warders Lose Court Tilt

Two Watch and Ward Society agents came out second best in municipal court today in an effort to link Carl Lechtenberg, of Commonwealth ave., Brighton, with accepting a horse race bet.

The agents, Wilfred Pratt and Louis Crouteau, Jr., told Judge Joseph Donovan that, accompanied by Special Officer Edward Crickard, they approached Lechtenberg in Scollay sq. and prevailed on him to accept a $1 win bet on Gay Franka in yesterday's fifth race at Suffolk Downs.

Lechtenberg testified he told them he was not a "bookie" but after their insistent pleas he accepted the money with the promise he would turn it over to a bookmaker he knew. Judge Donovan said he could not find the man guilty on suspicion.

Fish Tide Florida Health Menace

CLEARWATER, Fla., Aug. 9 (AP)—The deadly fish plague lashed anew at some Florida west coast beaches today, throwing up tons of dead and dying fish along the shores.

The mass created such a disposal problem that health authorities issued a warning to all persons to stay out of the surf lest they become victims of a rash brought on by the so-called "red tide."

Dr. Franklin E. Campbell of the Pinellas County Health Department said the situation was a "health menace so big we scarcely know how to tackle it."

448 Polio Cases In Week Alarm Britain

LONDON, Aug. 9 (INS)—Great Britain's outbreak of infantile paralysis reached an alarming stage today. The ministry of health announced that cases reported the week ending Aug. 2 totaled 448, an increase of 146 over the previous week, which had been the heaviest to date.

Since the beginning of the year 1472 cases of polio have been reported.

THIS HUNCH PAID

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 9 (AP)—A hunch paid off well for Fred Green, Woonsocket theater owner.

Green was host to Sen. Barkley of Kentucky at the Mill College commencement yesterday.

After the Senator boarded a plane for Washington, Green went to the Lincoln Downs horse track.

He played $2 on Kentucky Sen—a long shot. It paid $156.80.

Hughes Probe

plane for Bangor, Me., to resume his vacation.

In the earlier exchanges Hughes said that Fulton's testimony would "be embarrassing to Sen. Brewster."

At the same time, Hughes then was reluctant to have Fulton disclose confidential lawyer-client conversation between them.

Fulton's appearance came as the subcommittee met for a two-hour session to seek additional data on whether $164,000 in entertainment figured in the award of plane contracts to Hughes.

The investigators had been told by Johnny Meyer, Hughes' publicist, that he (Meyer) spent the $164,000 in entertaining wartime officials who might have been interested in the Hollywood millionaire's aircraft contracts.

But the subcommittee decided it wants to hear from Hughes how the money was spent.

Meyer, central figure in spicy earlier testimony covering a transcontinental round of party-giving, still was officially missing. Chairman Ferguson issued a subpoena for him when Meyer failed to appear at yesterday's hearing.

But Hughes, self-styled "perfectionist" designer of airplanes and globe-girdling airman, was on hand.

Hughes conceded that the 200-ton flying boat, which has yet to fly, might have been completed earlier if he had been willing to delegate some of the design to other persons.

"But I am a perfectionist," he said, "and I don't like to delegate the work to others."

Asserting that he had "designed every nut and bolt that went into this airplane," Hughes said:

"I designed this ship to a greater degree than any one man has ever designed any recent large airplane, down to one-fourth the size of this ship."

Hughes said that during the war he worked "18 to 20 hours a day" and that subsequently he was forced to take a seven months' rest for his health.

As far as the subcommittee is concerned, the feud between Hughes and Sen. Brewster, chairman of the full war investigating committee, was officially ended. But Brewster took to the air last night to assert that Hughes "moved heaven and earth" to stop the senate investigation into his plane contracts.

ROAST DEER

ASH FORK, Ariz., Aug. 9 (AP)—An antelope ran full-tilt into a sagging 44,000-volt power line early today and darkened the towns of Ash Fork, Seligman and Williams for seven hours.

The wire had been left swaying a few feet above ground when a bolt of lightning smashed an insulator.

Linemen, investigating the power break, came upon the charred body of the antelope.

In a radio interview, Brewster said Hughes' attorneys "even tried to get" Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican national committee, "to bring pressure upon me to stop the case."

Brewster said that Hughes "set out to destroy my usefulness" as chairman of the committee and as a member of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

4 N. Y. Police Inspectors Demoted in Gambling Quiz

NEW YORK Aug. 9 (AP)—Four police inspectors have been demoted to captain and 20 other officers transferred by Comr. Arthur W. Wallander in another department shakeup as the drive against gambling sizzles on.

2 Sons Celebrate Mass For Mrs. Glennon

One son celebrated the funeral mass and another acted as deacon today as final rites were held in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Jamaica Plain, for Mrs. Maria Glennon, widowed mother of two priests.

The mass was chanted by Rev. James G. Glennon, Immaculate Conception Church, Marlboro. His brother, the Rev. Charles T. Glennon, St. Joseph's Church, Maplewood, a former Dachau war prisoner, acted as deacon.

A third son, Rev. James E. Glennon, a former missionary, died two years ago. Mrs. Glennon was the widow of Thomas Glennon, a retired public works department official.

$2.35 Sets 4th New High for Corn in Week

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP)—A new record high for the fourth time this week was hung up by corn on the board of trade today. The September corn future sold at $2.35 a bushel, beating the 99-year peak of $2.31⅝ established belt, with predictions of clear yesterday.

Absence of rain in the main corn skies and temperatures hovering around 100 degrees from Indiana to Nebraska, spurred heavy buying at the opening. Initial prices wer 2½ to 6½ cents higher than yesterday's close.

'Gone With the Wind' Returns

"Gone With The Wind," thought by many to be the greatest motion picture ever made, is coming back to Boston. The famous Technicolor production has been booked to open a special return engagement Thursday at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters, at popular prices.

Clark Gable and Viven Leigh head the cast of this David O. Selznick production for M-G-M with Olivia de Havilland and Leslie Howard in the other two major roles. Not a scene has been cut from the picture which will be presented just as it was in its original showings.

Discussing the booking yesterday, Loews' division manager Charles E. Kurtzman said that while Loew's realized the widespread interest in a return of "Gone With The Wind," the showing of Clark Gable in "The Hucksters" gave amazing proof of the photoplay's popularity. At the end of "The Hucksters" a frame on the screen suggested that those who wanted to see "GWTW" again might sign a scroll in the lobby.

So many people rushed from the auditorium to sign up that it was necessary to prepare a new sheet for signatures almost every day during "The Hucksters" showing. Reports from other cities show the same reaction—an overwhelming demand for the famous drama.

THE RED-HEAD DAYS, one of the most popular footlight families in theatrical history, will all film fans to their legions of devotees when Warners' film version of Broadway's fabulous "Life With Father" opens on the Esire and Modern screens on Aug. 10. Irene Dunne and William Powell play the cinematic Day.

JOHN MILLS comes to the Exeter screen tomorrow in "Great Expectations," based on the Charles Dickens classic.

Gertrude Lawrence Gets Strawhat Tops

Gertrude Lawrence will have the highest guarantee this summer in a straight strawhat show when "Lady Maria" plays Marblehead next week, according to Variety. Her contract calls for $4,000 plus 50 per cent of the profits, the show business bible reports, adding that few if any similar deals are known on Broadway. Part of the money is said to be marked for Miss Lawrence's favorite American Theater Wing charity.

Higgins-Monks

A VEIL OF HEIRLOOM rose point lace in the collection of treasures of her great-aunt Mrs. Jack Gardner, is being worn by pretty Ellen Endicott Monks for her marriage at four o'clock today to Austin Douglas Higgins in St. Stephen's Church, Cohasset. Her aunt's palace is known to art lovers the world over as the Isabella Stuart Gardner Museum.

Daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. Gardner Monks of Lenox and Garden Ledge, Cohasset, Ellen is being given in marriage by her uncle, Robert T. Knowles, and her father is performing the ceremony. She is wearing off shoulder cream satin with her heirloom veil and carrying her grandmother's prayer book with cream roses, sweet peas and babies' breath.

Ellen Monks

Her cousin, Mrs. Burrage Warner of Lenox, is matron of honor. Her gown is gold taffeta with a sheer gold nylon overdress and she is wearing a gold horsehair hat and carrying painted daisies in a basket. The bridesmaids' costumes are white nylon over rose, green and orchid taffet, with white horsehair hats and baskets of flowers.

They are Charlotte Horwood, Cambridge; Ann Horner, Brookline; Suzette Annin, Richmond; Mary Kirkpatrick, Richland, Wis.; Marjory Colt Dalton; Catherine Shults, Herkimer, N. Y., and Doria Higgins, Washington. Susan Knowles is flower girl and William Monks ring bearer.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Higgins of Washington. His brother Deighton is best man and there is a large usher corps.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. Higgins and his bride will live at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., where he is on the faculty. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Constantin Pertzoff (Olga Monks) of Lincoln who was married at Gardner Museum.

Gen. and Mrs. Daniel Needham and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Fairclough of West Newton are sojourning at the Poland Spring House, Poland Spring, Me., and will be guests at the colorful Colony Assembly there this evening. Also attending the dance are Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. John Parker Newbury, Swampscott; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Manning, Cambridge; Miss Mary M. Joyce, Brookline; James C. Bayley, member of the City Council, and his mother, Mrs. J. C. Bayley of Comonwealth ave.

A DAUGHTER, Sherryll Gail, was born July 23 at Wyman House, Cambridge, to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Pray of Cambridge. The baby is a granddaughter of Mrs. Daniel R. Pray of Cambridge and Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Pulver, Millerton, N. Y.

A FALL WEDDING is planned by Anne Hall Duncan of Cambridge and Peter Eustis of Milton, whose engagement was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Duncan, at a family party at their summer home in Francestown, N. H.

Miss Duncan graduated from Buckingham School and Smith 1941. She served a year overseas with the Red Cross. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Eustis of Milton and Cataumet, graduated from Mountain Valley School and Harvard.

New Hairdos Disliked

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

AFTER ALL, a woman's hair is her best feature . . . and she isn't going to wear it a new way for no reason. But give her that good reason . . . and she'll change her hairdo at the drop of a hat. Well, it IS the new hat that is the new reason for the new hairdo.

But don't you rush into the new close-to-the-head hair styles unless it is becoming to you. Frankly, we're not a bit keen about them . . . or maybe it is just a sour grapes attitude because we are not sufficiently beautiful to wear them.

But neither are the New York glamor models in favor of the new hairdos . . . with center parts and ear coverage. We talked the situation over recently in New York with several of the models who wore this mode to set off the new hats . . . and they told me confidentially they disliked them intensely.

STUDY NEW HAIRDOS

Well, if the models aren't personally in favor of them . . . what with their established stock-in-trade . . . beauty . . . what are we poor, simple gals at home to say? So, we repeat, don't be rushed into this new coiffure craze. Study it . . . and if you don't like it . . . reject it. Don't sacrifice personal appeal for transitional smartness!

It is claimed that the new hairdos are especially appropriate. With skirts swooping downward and shoulders reverting to more natural lines . . . sleeker, close-to-the-head hair styles give the figure balance . . . and their pretty, ladylike look perfectly complements the more feminine, elegant look of the new fashions. Well, maybe!

In the presentation of her new hairdos for the new hats, Lura de Gez, topflight New York hair-stylist, listed several points. For the first time in a decade, she said, there is new movement of hair forward, covering the hairline and ears. The hair must be proportionate length, she added, not necessarily short, but properly shaped and manageable, since a woman is her own hairdresser at least 300 days of the year.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION

Also, there must be width on the sides to balance greater bulk of new fashions. Hence the covered ear, effected either through braided rolls or bunched curls, revives the memory of the ear-doughnut hairdo of years ago. Because hair will be sleek and smooth on top, it must be conditioned for texture.

"Just as in clothes where sheenful fabrics are of number one importance," Miss De Gez pointed out, "hair with sheen will be the keynote of new, plainer, more carefully arranged hairdos."

The one exception to the rule of covered hairline, will be the use of headdresses, hats and false hair for evening, when the coiffure will be brushed up and back a la 1840 fashion.

Do you like the new hairdo prospects? I'd be interested to know . . . so drop me a line and let me have YOUR opinion.

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Saturday, Aug. 9, 1947

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Make up your mind that you are going to give yourself the benefit of new interest. Go out more. Make new friends. Moreover, don't be a miser. Persons born on this date require a goodly amount of luxury.

Lucky number: 7.
Lucky color: VIOLET.
Lucky stone: PEARL.
Lucky flower: WHITE ORCHID.

LOW CURLS hug the head from ear to ear to outline the shape of the head (at top, right) and peep out of the broad-brimmed hats which ride the crowning glory. Lura de Gez, noted New York hair stylist, stresses the need for absolutely beautiful hair texture and sheen for this newly-acclaimed fall hair style.

SIMPLE, plain and oh, so ladylike, is this new hairdo for fall (shown below) . . . heralded as the dramatic and feminine counterpart of the new elegant look in fashions. Here we have the hair center-parted . . . waved softly and rolled over the ears . . . to take naturally to the side-swept hats. The back is close-fitted to the head.

WIDTH on the sides to balance the greater bulk of new fashions is interpreted in this Lura de Gez-designed hairdo . . . which beautiful model Pat Ryan wears nicely. Tightly drawn over the top of the head from a center part to each ear . . . the hairdo climaxes its newness in the forward movement of the ear-placed curls. The part is carried all down the back of the head.

HAIR AND HAT are well mated in this new fall picture (at left) . . . the hat hugging the head and the brim sweeping widely atop to disclose the rolled curls over the ears.

Hot Breads, Quick Style

BECAUSE summer meals are likely to be a little on the light side, a little extra tidbit to go with them is needed. And what could be more perfect than hot breads —of which the quick bread variety is especially good. Easy to make, they add the right balance to salad meals which, as a rule, are not starchy.

Here are some suggestions:

PEANUT QUICK BREAD

3 cups flour
5 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt, if desired
¼ cup sugar
1 cup salted peanuts
1 egg
1¼ cups milk
1-3 cup cooking oil or melted shortening

Sift dry ingredients, add coarsely ground peanuts. Beat egg, add milk and shortening. Add to dry ingredients and mix carefully. Turn into greased loaf pan and bake at 300 to 350 deg. F. for about 1¼ hours. Makes 1 loaf.

APRICOT BREAD

½ cup dried apricots
½ cup water
2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. baking soda
¾ tsp. salt
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sugar
2 tbsp. shortening, melted
½ cup orange juice
1 cup chopped nut meats

Soak apricots in water ½ hour. Drain, reserving water, and grind apricots. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine well-beaten egg and sugar, and mix well. Stir in shortening. Add dry ingredients alternately with orange juice and ¼ cup of the water in which apricots were soaked, stirring well after each addition. Stir in apricots and nut meats. Mix well. Bake in greased 8x4-inch loaf pan in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1¼ hours. Cool before cutting. Makes 1 loaf.

WHOLE WHEAT NUT BREAD

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour.
1 tsp. baking powder
1½ tsp. baking soda; 1 tsp. salt
½ cup sugar
2 cups whole wheat flour
1 cup chopped walnuts
½ cup chopped raisins
2 cups sour milk or buttermilk
½ cup molasses

Mix and sift all-purpose flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and sugar; stir in whole wheat flour, walnuts and raisins. Combine sour milk and molasses; add to flour mixture, stirring only until well mixed. Turn into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 1 hour. Makes 1 loaf, 9x5x3 inches.

SOCIALISM'S FAILURE

THE SOCIALIST GOVERNMENT of Great Britain dares not admit failure to regain England's place in the economic and political sun; it is afraid to concede the defeat of Socialism in a free world.

Socialism can and does function in a slave world. In fact, every type of civilization that permitted slavery, that rejected the rights and dignity of the individual man, reverted to some form of Socialism.

If Great Britain continues its present program, it will inevitably on the economic side mirror the state that Mussolini produced in Italy. All trends, even to the control of the press, indicate the direction of British policy.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Dalton, said that Great Britain cannot wait for the Marshall plan. Well, what ARE the British waiting for? They have squandered two-thirds of the money we lent them on such liberal terms of repayment that they need not repay at all.

We have contributed heavily to Great Britain's restoration, and the question that we must face now frankly and surely is whether, should the United States be faced by a foe, the British would be willing and able to reciprocate.

Before we entered the war, many, including our present Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Lewis Douglas, insisted that it was Great Britain that had safeguarded the United States because the British Navy served us when we were unable to serve ourselves.

During the war, there was little evidence of such service. BE THAT AS IT MAY, THERE IS NO EVIDENCE AT PRESENT THAT GREAT BRITAIN CAN OR WILL PROVIDE SUCH SERVICE, OR THAT IT WOULD BE OF ANY VALUE IF PROFFERED.

Furthermore, a growing Socialist sentiment in that country leans toward the idea that it would be preferable for Great Britain to be rid of the American entanglement. They feel that the United States has done too little for "the mother country,"—anything less than full maintenance being too little.

Hence our problem is to know where we stand. The British seem willing to admit bankruptcy—but they want support.

ON WHAT BASIS AND WHAT FOR? Let's get at the facts. The strength of the United States must be measured now with care and precision so that we do not, at a desperate moment, find that those whom we so generously aided in their distress fail us, should we need them.

The United States must always be strong enough to protect itself—BY ITSELF!

HARMFUL TALK

TAX COMMISSIONER HENRY F. LONG is one politician whose bite is really worse than his bark, as most of us realize on the first day of every March. Long does a good deal of yapping, too. Sometimes we think he just likes to hear himself talk and other times we figure he delights in burning up his public as when, last month, he demanded a 30 per cent increase on assessments on small home owners.

He spoke out of turn again with his announcement that police, attempting to ferret out big-time illegal gambling, would receive no assistance from him in the way of tips regarding big incomes reported by the racketeers.

The statement originally attributed to him places the Commonwealth not only in the position of condoning illegal gambling but actually promoting it with a blessing as a means of raising needed tax revenues. His later statement that he can't help the police because the law forbids him to expose tax returns has a tongue-in-cheek sound.

What he has actually done is to invite big bookmakers, now being driven from New York, into Massachusetts with a promise of immunity. Whether he said "I won't give you away, boys," or "I can't give you away, boys," doesn't make much difference.

Like a great many things he says he would better not have said anything at all.

WHAT STATE has the most and largest mosquitos? There is room for argument there. But you will have to leave New Jersey out of it. The Jersey mosquitoes are getting fewer and smaller year by year. The New Jersey health authorities have waged a terrific and successful battle against the mosquitoes of their State, once world famous for their size and numbers. A New Jersey mosquito trap only averages five mosquitoes a night now. In 1945 the average was 1000. Besides the Jersey mosquitoes are getting so small they are anemic insects with a weak sting. However, the mosquitoes are crossing the river to New York where is it healthier for them. One of the major irritations of a Manhattan summer night is a mosquito buzzing around and around while you are trying to get a bit of shut-eye. Wonder where I could get one of those New Jersey mosquito traps.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q. Name the heavyweight boxing champion whose father was an undertaker or forward stogie carefully wrapped. A. It was James J. Corbett, whose father was an undertaker in the Hayes Valley section of San Francisco. I'll take a Pittsburgh stogie. Q—Is Fritzi Scheff still living? A—She certainly is and very active on the stage. Fritzi is currently appearing in a summer theater production of "Ladies in Retirement." Q—After his record-breaking winning streak didn't pitcher Rube Marquard of the Giants appear in vaudeville in a sketch titled, "Nineteen Straight?" A—He did. His leading lady was Blossom Seeley. Q—Are you familiar with a song titled, "For Months and Months?" A—Believe Jack Norworth sang a ditty with that title but I don't know the words. There is also a poem by Joseph Tabrar which includes the lines:

Blossom Seeley

In over a year and a half
I've only sung it once,
And I don't suppose I shall sing it again
For months and months and months.

PLEASE NOTE: A midtown Manhattan place of no great reputation offers a steak dinner for $3.50. And a feminine food critic referring to this meal in an article says, "It is no strain on the pocket book." Whose pocketbook is she referring to? I figure three and a half bucks for a dinner is a strain on the pocketbook of about 95 per cent of the population of these United States.

OVER THERE: Prince Louis Second of Monaco is back at his old stand and the Monte Carlo Casino reports business picking up. When Hitler took over France he asked Prince Louis to become an ally of Germany. The prince refused. The last time I was in Monte Carlo was in 1938. I went down there from Cannes on what was described in the railroad time table as an "auto dynamique." This was a railroad car equipped with an automobile engine. It averaged over 90 miles an hour! In the casino at Monte Carlo I was surprised to note a row of "one arm bandit" machines. I played them. I never go for roulette. Now Prince Louis is in charge again and the 25,000 residents of Monaco will see better days. When things are normal the citizens of Monaco pay no taxes. The gambling house profits take care of everything.

HATLESS TREND: The number of men going hatless in the good old summertime is increasing rapidly. So is the number of men who go hatless all the time. They think going hatless is good for the hair and besides they enjoy not having to check a hat. This hatless trend has manufacturers taking aspirin tablets by the handsful. Several of the larger hat firms are considering going into the general haberdashery business.

LIVELY TOWN: "San Francisco! the bizarre, the carefree, the city of all nations, the richest, merriest city on the continent, the nearest to a true Bohemia that America has ever seen." That was Eddie Foy's description of the town by the Golden Gate in the eighteen eighties. I never saw San Francisco until 1917. But it was lively enough for me then.

VISUAL TELEPHONE: Am asked if the visual telephone which permits a person to see the party at the other end of the line has reached "the practical stage." It reached that stage some time ago. Before the war there was available to the German public a visual pay-station telephone service between Hamburg and Berlin. It's about time a similar service was made available to the American public. Wouldn't you like a glimpse of your sweetie when you're phoning her?

"You an' your beauty bath salts!"

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

(Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IT WAS NOT A FIGHT between Joe Louis and some contender; it was not the Army-Notre Dame game; it was not the World Series. It was not a mob that had gathered to see some obscene novelty. It was Serge Koussevitzky directing the Boston Symphony in the Beethoven Symphonies in succession from the First to the Ninth.

Serge Koussevitzky

Twenty-four thousand Americans, socialites in boxes, students on rugs and blankets bringing their lunch with them, came from every state to hear the Fifth on a Saturday night in the Berkshire Hills, far from any big city. This was no accidental response to "what shall we do tonight?" It took a great effort for many of these visitors to come to our green hills where Longfellow, Bryant, Hawthorne and a century of brilliant Americans found their inspiration. The Music Festival has outrun the hotels and boarding houses, the telephone system, the roads. The Berkshires remain primitive—in spots primeval. But the Americans who love music come. I met a friend who drove up that Saturday night—listen—and drove back to New York—an eight-hour trip for an hour of Beethoven.

THE NINTH was done on a Tuesday night in midsummer and the audience was enormous, perhaps as many as 12,000. A chorus of 250 young music students, between the ages of 18 and 22, sang as Beethoven's chorals had never been sung before. When Koussevitzky's baton fell on the last note, the audience was on its feet cheering, shouting, applauding, waving. The old man—73 this year—stood there facing mature America.

And that is what Tanglewood means. It is something much more than good music brilliantly executed. Most of that huge assembly were not professional musicians. Most of them cannot recognize a fluff by the French horn or a missed note by a pianist. Most of them have never—or could ever—read Schiller's "Ode to Joy" in the original. Few of them can explain the growth of Beethoven's personality from the First to the Ninth.

But all of them, voluntarily, by a conscious effort, in accordance with their means, satisfied a yearning for perfection. As I milled in the crowd, during the intermissions, it came upon me more and more that this was a young audience, that many thousands were GI's and their girls, such as decades ago might have gone to Coney Island or Brighton Beach or some such place. They are young in years but their tastes have matured. The taste of the nation has matured. The culture of the American people has been elevated from the trivialities of the moment to the eternal humanities.

FOR TANGLEWOOD is but one expression of this cultural upsurge among our people. What other nation can speak of at least 35 symphonic groups spread from coast to coast, playing not only to the elite but to great masses as in the Hollywood Bowl, the Robin Hood Dell concerts in Philadelphia, the Stadium concerts in New York and in so many other cities that it is hard to keep them all in mind? And over the radio, the Philharmonic, the NBC and the Detroit symphonies, week after week, enrich a nation with their contributions to American culture.

I speak here only of music, for at the moment it is music that has captured the imagination of American youth. This lust for a better life will pour itself into poetry, art, the dance and in time even the theater will respond to its stimulus. We are on the upgrade.

And what is so glorious about it is the utter freedom of participation. No government plays any part in any of this. No government subsidizes, controls, lays down rules and regulations. No government official decides what shall or shall not be played, who is to perform, who is to listen. A free people choose between Beethoven and Irving Berlin and choose by taste. Tanglewood, as every noteworthy cultural development in the United States, is a voluntary product of a free people who ask nothing but the unimpaired right to pursue their own courses without interference by the state. I listened to Beethoven's Ninth at Tanglewood with that as a constant overtone.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9—Ann Sothern told me when I interviewed her some time ago that she longed to get away from her "Maisie" role. "Not that Maisie hasn't been good to me," said Annie, "but I want to do something different. I would like to sing occasionally and do a story in which I am not so hard-boiled."

Since that day, Annie has been loaned out to RKO and now she goes to Warners, also on a loan-out from MGM, to co-star with Jack Carson in "April Shower."

Ann Sothern

In "April Shower" she gets her wish to sing. It's the story of a couple of vaudevillians at the turn of the century and she not only sings but dances and wisecracks along with Carson, who is a hep boy at this stuff.

I just saw Annie in "Indian Summer," which she made for RKO, and you're going to thoroughly enjoy it. It's a picture that didn't cost a lot to make, but it has the kind of story Mr. and Mrs. Public will take to their hearts.

IF THERE WAS ever any matrimonial trouble between the Red Skeltons—and they DID have their temperamental moments—it's all over now!

Red is just crazy about the baby, calls her "Little Red," and both Skeltons admit the little girl is the real reason for their new-found happiness. So forget about a separation.

Meantime, Mr. Funnyman has been cleared by MGM to go to Eddie Small for the lead in "The Fuller Brush Man"—and believe me, that deal took a bit of doing on the part of Sylvan Simon. Not only did he have to wangle his own release from Metro to produce and direct his own story idea—but getting Red was another man sized job.

I NEVER KNEW Dennis O'Keefe was a writer and had sold many stories under the name of Jonathan Ricks, until I was discussing the deal he made to produce one of his own stories, "Draw Sabers," with Randy Scott.

Then I learned that Dennis is quite a boy with a pen—or should I say typewriter? He's writing a Hollywood novel called "Ladder of Ladies," but he feels that acting is his real business.

However, he has a contract with Brynie Foy to write, coproduce and act in "Draw Sabers," with Randy, of course. The story is laid in India in 1870.

THE MOST serious blow struck motion pictures in years is the tax proposed by the British of 75 per cent of the estimated earnings of all imported films. That means practically 35 per cent of the earnings of the entire motion picture business.

The British government would allow only 25 per cent of the profits made in Britain to be consigned into foreign currency. The remaining 75 per cent is to be held as duty. A tax of that size, of course, will make it impossible for American motion pictures to be shown in Britain and, without American pictures, London theaters cannot possibly stay open. There are not enough English pictures made.

In the opinion of Eddie Mannix, president of the Motion Picture Producers, the British government is playing political football and trying to get in right with the British public by asking this drastic action.

England claims motion pictures took $58,000,000 out of the country last year.

The Johnston office has been having daily meetings with the producers to try and find a solution, but what solution can there be when suddenly, without warning, such a tax is imposed?

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Wolves along the sunset strip are no novelty—but this is the first time a red fox (a real one—and not draped over the shoulders of a blonde!) has bitten the dust.

Honest, my good friend Marvin Miller ran over the fox not far away from the Mocambo, and I might suspect that was a tall tale from my radio announcer-actor if it weren't for that canyon fire raging in the hills. The conflagration has driven the poor animals closer and closer to town—but a fox showing up in the night club belt is really something.

Late diners need not be afraid of any animal they see while the blaze is still raging—unless it's a pink elephant, of course.

A few years ago Walter Winchell dubbed Dorothy Castle the sexiest gal singer with an orchestra. From then on Dorothy had many jobs, a few pictures thrown in, but came the war, and she went overseas and toured with an orchestra to entertain our boys.

Well, Dorothy is now back in Hollywood, and she plays Bob Mitchum's saloon sweetheart in "The Red Pony" for Lewis Milestone. She and Myrna Loy are the only gals in the picture.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Congratulations to Mildred and Henry Ginsberg who are celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary today. Henry's been with Paramount eight years and has done a fine job. Paramount is now one of the most flourishing of the movie companies.

David Selznick has been sick for five days with a very bad case of laryngitis. Five secretaries had a vacation on account of he couldn't talk, and he generally keeps that many busy.

Mark Stevens has gone to Tahoe to call on Hedy Lamarr. Watch that romance—it's hotter than this weather.

Helen Walker, escorted by an unidentified man in uniform, dining at Ciro's. Where was Lucky Humberstone?

Jack Cummings, MGM producer, has been very sick all week with a malady the doctors haven't been able to diagnose. He runs a very high temperature.

Peggy Ann Garner

Peggy Ann Garner is heartbroken over the death of her horse, Rocky. It's especially hard for Peggy Ann because the nag had to be put away after hurting himself.

The organization from which Bing Crosby adopted the 11-year-old child is called Rescuchild, Inc., and not Children's Rescue. The confusion in names, the organization feels, may keep some child from being cared for by those who might like to contact it.

Joan Leslie will be in town this week-end for X-rays as an aftermath of being pushed out of the way of stampeding horses on location. She has a very bad knee and a painful spine, but she will be able to continue the two more weeks on "Stampede."

Anne Baxter lunching at the Brown Derby with her famous grandfather, Frank Lloyd Wright, who was very dapper, all dressed in white.

The James Becks are giving a cocktail party next Tuesday in honor of Col. and Mrs. Snowden Fahenstock, Jim's brother-in-law and sister.

Boston After Dark

DISREGARD THE GOSSIP that Superior Court Justice William A. Burns plans to retire shortly from the bench . . . (This advice comes from an authority whose name we are not privileged to disclose) . . . From the Red Sox camp comes word that the savage and unceasing derision of a Boston sportswriter has aroused the Cronin men to a fighting pitch. The scribe can proclaim that this was his desired effect . . . (In event, of course, that the Sox —whose hose color should be saffron instead of red, he implies — start on a winning streak . . .) This is not too remote a possibility, incidentally.

ONE LOYAL admirer of Joe Cronin bet $500 against $3000 before last night's game that the Red Sox would sweep the three-game series with the Yanks . . . He took the worst of the odds, unfortunately . . . A parlay of $500 on the three games, at even money, would have earned him $3500 profit.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE PERINI child's drowning at Falmouth will prompt thousands of mothers to watch their toddlers a bit more closely, it is safe to say . . . Not that it can ease their bereavement very much, but Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perini had the sincere sympathy of a legion of persons they will never meet . . . When news came that little Nancy had drowned, it seemed that everyone had a sorrowing comment to make.

GUS SCHIRMER, the young producer who first revived "Burlesque," starring Bert Lahr, was at the Paddock Club, a guest of J. Arthur Warner . . . Financier Warner's position as an influential member of New York's sophisticated cafe society is being reflected continuously at Suffolk Downs. Come next racing season at East Boston and it will not be surprising if plane-loads of Manhattan's most colorful characters are disembarked by first post-time at East Boston airport.

RECOMMENDED: The newly air-conditioned, attractive Fox and Hounds Club, and its Rio Rhumba Casino with Wilson Lewis' superlative dance orchestra . . . NANCY HOLLAND, the Newton Conover girl, has been cast as ingenue lead in "The Male Animal," starring Robert Alda and opening Monday night at the Beverly Summer Theater . . . Nancy was an apprentice at Richard Aldrich's Cape Playhouse last season . . . Four years ago the late Charles W. Koerner, in charge of production at RKO Studios until his death in 1945, had signed Miss Holland to a contract with RKO to become effective on the Newton girl's 17th birthday . . . She was 14 at the time . . . When Koerner died, Nancy put aside her thoughts of a career in pictures, and enrolled at Erskine College . . . From school she went to New York and joined her sister, Jane, as a Conover girl . . . Her role in "The Male Animal" is the Newton model's first chance at a sizeable assignment . . . Chief Talent Scout Arthur Willi, a hold-over from the Koerner regime at RKO and one of the shrewdest buyers in the talent market, was present at the Ritz-Carlton when his lamented former boss made his pact with young Nancy . . . Willi will view a performance at Beverly in his official capacity . . . More than one prospect will be worth his consideration, we are told . . . Word comes that a female member of the pioneer North Shore Prince family, also in the Beverly Theater's cast, is an accomplished young actress of extreme versatility in character roles.

THE USHERS AT SUFFOLK DOWNS presented Chief Joseph Ferrari of the race track's police force with a pen and pencil set in evidence of their appreciation of the chief's considerate co-operation throughout the past season . . . The rumor that the Alliance of Turf Counsellors, Betting Commissioners and Bookmakers, Ltd. (for Limited), contributed lavishly to the purchase of the memento may be dismissed as not founded on fact.

Atomic Problems

—3— By Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (INS)—A great deal has been said about the time which has been wasted and the blunders which have been made in connection with America's atomic program since the first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima two years ago this week.

At long last, the nation's development of atomic energy for both peacetime and wartime uses is swinging into high gear. Finally fully operative, America's Domestic Energy Commission is beginning to show results —after being kept on the sidelines for most of its youthful existence.

With half a billion dollars to spend this fiscal year, the commission has started an extensive construction and modernization program on all plants connected with atomic energy throughout the country.

This includes adding to the facilities at the Hanford Works in the state of Washington, the Los Alamos plant in New Mexico and the Oak Ridge setup in Tennessee. Also under way are plans for the building of new laboratories and research facilities at Schenectady, at Brookhaven, L. I., in Du Page County near Chicago and at Dayton, O.

Although a sizable chunk of the money appropriated for the commission's use will naturally go into operation of existing facilities, the majority of the remainder probably will be earmarkedfor expansion and plant-improvement.

FROM A LONGER viewpoint, probably an even more important part of the commission's program has been its action in regard to top-notch scientists and managerial experts.

During the period of stagnation, until the commission appointments finally were confirmed by Congress, atomic scientists were leaving the federal service in droves. The same was true of the trained personnel and managerial heads who hand been handling the Manhattan project since its inception.

There were several reasons for their exodus. For one thing, more than a year had passed after Hiroshima before there was any assurance at all that Congress would appropriate adequate funds to keep our atomic facilities literally from falling apart. And in the meantime, even the men who made the atomic bomb had to eat!

When the money finally was forthcoming, new doubts arose about the program's management and policies—doubts which grew greater and greater during the five-months' squabble in Congress over confirmation of the commission members. And, fearing that they could not work with any freedom under some of the policies being suggested on Capitol Hill, hundreds of other atomic experts walked out.

However, when Chairman David E. Lilienthal took over last April, one of the first moves he made was to start a campaign actively recruiting new scientists and retaining the old ones. In addition, he managed to get back on the job many of the plant management experts who had done such a mammoth task in secret during the war.

AT THIS WRITING, that recruiting campaign is still in progress.

Perhaps the most important of all atomic developments during recent months has been the one which has been the least noticeable—for obvious reasons. This has involved the revamping of the entire atomic security system.

For a time after the war ended, attempts were made to continue operating under the wartime security methods—simply because no other solution seemed possible at the time. It soon became apparent, however, that such a system would not be feasible for long. One of its best-known failures was, of course, the case of the two Army sergeants charged with skipping out with atomic secrets. But there were other known leaks infinitely more dangerous.

Currently, then, the commission is working with the Justice Department and some of the nation's top legal brains in an effort to perfect a peacetime atomic security system which will be both effective and constitutional—no mean trick, incidentally . . .

All in all, despite the lengthy political stalemate, America's atomic energy program is showing signs of swinging back into stride.

But the program suffered badly during the delay, and the commission's job now, as Lilienthal wryly said the other day, is a little like "rebuilding a bicycle while you are riding on it!"

Why Not a Spot In Hall of Fame For Baseball Goats

By AUSTEN LAKE

DURING THE BRAVES recent pilgrimage to Cooperstown, the sanctus sanctorum of baseball, I came away from the little rose brick building which enshrines such famous relics of the game as Cap Anson's shirt, Willie Keeler's bat and Nap Lajoie's glove, with a feeling that something was missing; that the mechanics of the Hall of Fame were imperfect.

I have no argument against immortals such as Mickey Cochrane, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins, whose likenesses line the walls in imperishable bronze. But there are several approaches to immortality and it seemed that sheer skill and artistry of performance is not the only measure of fame. Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb were remarkable athletes and deserve to be in the Hall of Hooray. But one questions, in all the seasons they played, if they achieved such signal notoriety as came to Fred Merkle of the Giants on the day that he failed to touch second base.

THAT'S MY SUBJECT; that the method of immortalizing the game's ivory on skill alone tends to belittle some of the most illustrious boneheads in baseball. Furthermore a policy of that sort is snobbish. It allows no place for human error or foibles and, if the Hall of Fame is restricted to celebrities alone, it is apt to give future generations a wrong impression that our generation was perfect. This will tend to discourage the weak.

If I had my way I would cast my ballot for some of the outstanding goofies of baseball who made the headlines from pure daffiness. Because many of the little legends that survive to be retold wherever a group of fans gather over a crust and a thimble, are those like the time Mickey Owen, the Brooklyn catcher, muffed a third strike for the final out of the World Series game with the Yankees, who then went on to make up a four-run deficit and close the series out. I would put Mickey in a special Cooperstown niche for that. Indeed, I would install a special corner in the Cathedral for all these victims of their own futilities, fumbles and flops as contributors to some of the most gaudy and nonsensical fables of the sport.

I would make Merkle my No. 1 goat in the goofy corner because his neglect to step on second base cost the Giants a National League championship. I submit that Mr. Merkle deserves to be idolized for the most historic boner in baseball history, although there will be many protests from the local parish that Johnny Pesky, the Red Sox shortstop, merits the spot for freezing the ball while Enos Slaughter scampered all the way from first to home to win the 1946 World Series.

Still, somehow, modern boners don't compare with the magnificence of old-time boners, which grow more golden with years of retelling, such as that time Heinie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins over the plate with the score that virtually settled the 1917 series. However, there is some opposition to Heinie's legitimate right to goathood, since he had no choice in the matter and there was nobody to throw the ball to. But I subscribe to no such Pollyanna, Salvation Nell, or honied charity, because if Mr. Zim hadn't been identified with that sappodillio footrace he would be a forgotten man.

AND WHAT ABOUT THE TIME Schnozzle Lombardi, the Cincinnati catcher, let the winning run of the 1938 series score with the ball practically teed up on his chin and Schnoz lying in a trance, unable to reach out and tag the runner? And that time Roger Peckinpaugh flubbed eight errors in the 1925 series to establish a record that has never been challenged? Yes, Roger's pecking and pawing wins him a pedestal.

Nor would I ignore Mr. Beans Reardon, the genial umpire, for flagging down a Cardinal runner late last month on what at first glance seemed to be a home run. Being a merciful man Mr. Reardon did not wish to cause the Cardinal unnecessary perspiration, but only caused himself painful embarrassment when the ball bounced off an outfield rail and into the field of play. It turned out no home run at all and the man was thrown out by a step. So the game must be replayed and, conceivably may be the deciding factor in this year's pennant race. If so, will vastly enhance Bean's claim to immortality.

And how about Hank Gowdy's exhibition in the 1924 Series when Old Goldenrod did a folk dance under a high fout and finally tripped over his own mask to give Washington the terrestrial title. Decidedly Hank deserves a cubicle, as does also Hack Wilson, the human tree stump whose celebrated loss of several pop flies in the sun contributed to the Athletics 10-run inning in the 1929 games. In these times of jealousy and greed certainly such generosity becomes a virtue.

Others on my list would embrace Tony Lazzeri, whose strikeout in the clutch in the 1926 Series by Grover Cleveland Alexander sponsored the song "Does Your Mother Know Your Out Lazzeri?" And Johnny Miljus' epidemic of wild pitches in the 1927 championships. And who could fail to support Babe Herman's claim to the Hall of Frenzy for fielding the ball with his head?

No! Prate if you will about the pitching virtuosity of Carl Hubbell, the dazzling speed of Ty Cobb, the power and glory of Babe Ruth, the sylvan grace of Tris Speaker, the fire and dash of Mike Cochrane. But did any of these heroes ever triple into a double play or get called out on a home run? Only the gifted can do that! So that's my list for the Hall of Scream!

Sox Look Good For A Change, Where's Joe DiMag $64 Query

By LEO MONAHAN

"They looked like last year's Sox tonight," exclaimed an exuberant fan as he left Fenway Park after watching the Croninmen stage a spiritful four-run surge in the eighth to post a 9-6 victory over the league-leading Yanks. This, and other remarks overheard as the 34,711 spectators filed out proved that traces of "pennantitis" still remain in the Hub.

The Sox really looked like a flag-contender for a change. They seemed to have regained the fighting spirit and batting thump of last season. In addition, Mickey Harris looked impressive during his three inning relief stint, allowing but two bingles.

"Where's Joe DiMaggio?" seemed to be the $64 question of the evening. Joltin' Joe's whereabouts was a mystery which baffled even Manager Bucky Harris. Joe, who suffered a neck injury sliding into third base in Cleveland, wasn't present when the New Yorkers arrived from Philly.

When queried, Harris remarked, "I don't know where Joe is but I'm sure he'll report back when he's recovered."

With the most famous of the DiMags absent, the Yanks are in pretty poor shape. Spud Chandler, sporting a 9-4 mark, is sidelined with a shoulder injury. Rookie Frank Shea has been shelved with elbow trouble and Charlie Wensloff also has trouble with his flipper. Keller is out for the season after having a back operation performed.

In an effort to add some punch to the batting order, Harris brought in Allie Clark from Newark. Clark, an infielder-outfielder, was installed in Dimag's cleanup position last night and responded with a double and single in five trips.

He missed a homer by inches in the fifth when his well-tagged drive bounced off the railing along the top of the left field wall and returned to the field, allowing him but a double.

Sain Seeks 5th in Row For Pepped-Up Braves

POLO GROUNDS, New York., Aug. 9—Large John Sain of the Braves pitching corps warmed up today and fired at the Giants here in the second game of the series. The Warriors were after their fifth straight win in a streak of good baseball that has given Billy Southworth's club a new lease on life.

Sain, with a 13-7 record, was to be opposed by the Giants' Dave Koslo, who boasted a 13-5 record going into today's test.

The Braves were in excellent spirits today, following their three victories in four games with the Dodgers back in Boston, and their 7-5 win in ten innings here last night over the Giants.

Over the recent stretch the Tribe has regained its fielding touch, and the pitching staff, which had seemed to be the weakest part of the club, has developed into a very good hill group.

Last night even Bill Voiselle, hardluck pitcher of the Braves, came through with seven top-flight innings and proved again that he's due to be a real asset down the stretch of the campaign.

The Braves were in fourth place this a. m., eight games back of the leading Dodgers, four behind the second place Cards, and only two games in arrears of the Giants.

While such margins aren't easy to make up this late in the season, the club has regained its flag dreams and it wouldn't be surprising to see it get back into flag contention even if it can't reach the roof.

The Braves play the Giants here again tomorrow afternoon, then move over to Brooklyn for a very vital series. If they can do well in these two parks, they can return to Boston for a two-week home stand with real hopes of making a fight of the NL title race.

Detroiter's 150 Paces Skeet Field

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP) Dick Hecker of Detroit paced the amateur field today in the 250-Target National all-bore Skeet championship with a perfect score after firing at 150 targets.

Second with 149 out of 150 were Grant Ilseng, Waco, Tex., Alex Kerr, Beverly Hills, Cal., and Billy Perdue, Mobile, Ala. Kerr, all-bore defending champion and winner in this meet of the amateur sub-small gauge title, had a perfect 50 today after scoring 99 x 100 yesterday.

D. Lee Braun of Dallas, Tex., continued to show the way among the professionals with a perfect 150. Braun already has won the professional 20-gauge, Small gauge and sub-small gauge titles.

Straight 100's among amateurs scored yesterday by D. Seofield, Newton, Mass., and B. Henderson, Melrose, Mass., and others.

Doerr Puts 'Damper' on Page's Spitball

Dave "Boo" Ferriss (9-10) and Allie Reynolds (14-6) were slated to be hurling opponents when the Sox square off against the Yanks at Fenway today. Reynolds, an ex-Indian, is the leading N. Y. hurler and has seen more duty (178 1-3 innings) than any of the others.

Although Mgr. Harris wouldn't admit it, don't be surprised if rookie Frank Shea (11-3) faces the Sox in the third and final game of the three-game series tomorrow . . . Shea pitched one inning of an exhibition game in Waterbury, Ct., Thursday and according to his receiver, Yogi Berra, he was in good shape . . . "Loose as a goose," said Berra when referring to Shea's effort in the Nutmeg State.

It may be a coincidence but lefty Joe Page, Yanks' fireman, seemed to lose his stuff after the alert Bobby Doerr requested umpire Jim Hurley at the plate to examine the ball for signs of "dampness" in the seventh . . . When asked for the sphere, Page obligingly rolled it from the mound to the plate . . . Williams was at bat at the time . . . An inning later Jake Jones smashed a 3 and 2 pitch into the left field screen for his 10th round tripper of the year.

Prior to Doerr's inquiry, Page had been coasting along and had the Sox baffled with an array of dipsy doodle tosses . . . Soon afterwards Jones, and then Mele, got their four baggers.

Last night's turnout of 34,711 was the largest of the eleven night games played . . . The attendance for the night tilts now stands at 370,645 while the season's total swelled to 1,039,418.

The Sox were outhit, 14 to 10, but homers by Mele, Doerr and Jones made the difference . . . Tommy Henrich blasted a sinewy swipe into the right field stands just inside the foul pole with nobody aboard in the fifth.

Mele's clout was a tremendous one . . . It cleared the nets in left and sailed on to a nearby roof

The bleachers were packed an hour before game time and Ted Williams obliged the early arrivals by blasting three successive pitches into the stands . . . The first two landed among the fans and the third fell into the Sox bull pen . . . Ted went none for three of the evening but was walked twice, once intentionally, to boost his bases on balls total to 119.

Loquacious Bobo Newsom no longer sports the double zero which he wore as a Senator . . . He now wears No. 34 . . . When he appeared on the field for practice he was greeted by Birdie Tebbetts who asked him how it felt to be kicked upstairs . . . He cautiously asked BoBo to limit his answer to a few thousand choice words.

Mele will be awarded the Eastern League's Most Valuable Player award for the '46 season before tomorrow's game

Cards Gain Six Games On Dodgers In Big Week

Eddie Dyer's Cardinals are making their move toward a second straight National League pennant with a well-balanced pitching staff, superior to the three-man crew which carried the burden during the 1946 stretch drive to victory, according to the Associated Press.

A year ago, Howie Pollet, Murray Dickson and Harry Brecheen had to stumble along with only occasional help from the other staff members. Now Dyer has that same trio, once again approaching its '46 effectiveness and a fine rookie in Jim Hearn plus a better-conditioned George Munger.

Munger could well be the key to the pennant race. Much was expected of him off his pre-war record but he has failed to live up to expectations. That is, he had failed to live up to them until last night when he shut out Pittsburgh with three hits for an eighth straight Cardinal triumph, 6-0.

"Wait until 1947" was the watchword. Even Mgr. Dyer went on record as predicting he'd win 20 this season. He hardly will do that but his 9-3 win record and his latest success show that he is capable of carrying his share of the load.

In the last nine Cardinal games, counting the series finale with Brooklyn which was lost 2-1, six St. Louis pitchers have gone the route. Dickson and Pollet, two each, and Harry Brecheen and Munger each once. Hearn, the fire-balling freshman with the fine 8-4 record, was lifted once for a pinch hitter and yanked once in the ninth after hurling shutout ball for eight frames.

All in all it's an encouraging picture for the world champs who have closed the Dodgers' lead from 10 to four games in a week's time. Their important test comes in an extended eastern tour starting at Brooklyn Aug. 18.

While the Birds were blanking the Bucs, Brooklyn was shutting out Philadelphia, 5-0, lambasting Dutch Leonard and Charley Schanz for 13 hits. Ralph Branca, who had failed three times in search of his 17th win, finally made the grade scattering eight hits to earn his fifth shutout.

Bruce Edwards with three hits and Dixie Walker and Carl Furillo, each with a double and single, led the attack to the delight of a homecoming crowd of 32,170 fans.

Bill Nicholson's 11th inning homer enabled the Chicago Cubs to shade Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, 2-1, in the only day game played in the majors. It was the third loss in a row for Blackwell following his string of 16 straight victories. Johnny Schmitz was helped to his seventh success by a Cub triple play in the seventh inning.

Detroit and Cleveland both went over the million mark in paid attendance. The Tigers' total hit 1,014,807 after their 4-2 twilight loss to Chicago. Rudy York's two-run homer did the trick in the tenth, sending Hal Newhouser down with his 11th loss. Luke Appling had a perfect evening with four straight hits, helping Frank Papish to his ninth win.

Agganis, Keany Shine In Workout

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

NEW YORK—The two Bostin American-Record-Sunday Advertiser representatives to the Hearst National Sandlot Championships here are not only two of the most potent in physical stature but also in playing ability.

During the first practice session held yesterday at Yankee Stadium Harry Agganis, Lynn Classical, bristled at the plate. Walter "Huck" Keany, Dedham, also a heavy hitter, displayed amazing dexterity around his third base position.

The two coaches of the Hearst team, Oscar Vitt and Ray Schalk, were highly impressed with the fine first day showing of the Boston boys.

The practice began at 10 a. m. By 10:15 Agganis had sighted a high inside pitch and had planked it into the right field stands—stands that were made famous by Babe Ruth himself.

The ball was hurled by no less a sandlot notable than Ken Figeroid, Oakland, Cal., the author of three recent West Coast no-hit games.

"Agganis really laid into that high inside fast one," stated Oscar Vitt with enthusiasm. "He also hit a line bullet down the first base line which would have been a hit anywhere."

Huckleberry Keany, large and likeable took time out from his eating long enough to snag a half-dozen "hot" ones down along the third base sector. "Huck" stroked well at the plate during his two turns but was unable to come up with anything like the smashes he has been rocketting for Dedham High.

"They tell me Keany is only 17 years old," Commented Schalk. "I think he will develop into one of the best New England prospects. I particularly like his strong arms. Strong arms are a great asset for top hitters."

One of the New York Journal-American reporters mentioned that Keany and Agganis are pretty cozy characters.

"They got into the uniform room and got the only two size 44 jackets. They also got measured first and got the top selections of the uniforms."

The final game is set for next Wednesday night under the blinkers . . . Honus Wagner, famed Pittsburgh Hall of Famer, will join Schalk and Vitt Monday . . . The U. S. All-Stars, of which Harry and "Huckleberry" are members will play Rabbit Maranville's New York All-Stars.

The boys stood on the steps of City Hall yesterday, drizzle and all, and palmed the duke of Mayor Bill O'Dwyer of New York . . .

The U. S. stars got their first look at Madison Square Garden when they saw George Kochan and Bill Fox toss punches . . .

Today is another big day on the Great White Way . . . Practice at Yankee Stadium at 9 a. m. . . . Giants vs. Braves in the afternoon . . . Movies at Radio City Music Hall in the evening.

Improved Fishing In Buzzards Bay

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

There's a strong possibility that anglers may find improved fishing in the Buzzards Bay region this week-end, according to word from Bill Chase, Jr., and Charley Sherer, of the Red Top Bait Shop, who report three definite schools of stripers in the Canal.

These fish were spotted at three places: below the Bourne Bridge, toward the State Pier; at High Bank, near the Bourne Bridge; and near the Sagamore Bridge. Bluefish are also in the Canal.

Mid-week sportsmen did fairly well in this vicinity, Leo Jablonsky and Pete Lukitus of Worcester, taking a total of 17 bass, eight to 14 pounds each . . . Others connecting with nice catches were John "Soapy" Budra, Worcester, four fish; Elden Cunningham, Bourne, two; Bob Smalley, Buzzards Bay, two; and John Kenkalis, New Haven, Ct., six.

At present, the sport appears to be best on the east tides at night, with eelskin rigs proving most productive.

Sumner Towne, skipper of the charter boat, "The Lively Lady," has been hooking large numbers of squeteague in the Bay. He says it has been a poor season for striped bass, adding that there are more anglers than he can remember—an "they all want me to put 'em on to some fish!"

Joe Sostillio Shoots For 15th Midget Win

Fans at the Medford Bowl midget auto races tonight will view Joe Sostillio's attempt to add one more win to his already impressive streak of 14 feature event victories.

Joe will be hotly pursued by crack drivers headed by Buddy Tatro, Norwalk, who, fresh from his conquest of the previously unbeatable Wild Bill Schindler, hopes to turn the tables on the favorite.

SCRANTON GAINS IN RACE

Scranton edged to within half a game of third place in the Eastern League after trouncing Hartford in a double bill, while Wilkes-Barre was losing to Albany.

Armed Tunes Up for Assault Test Today

CHICAGO (AP)—Armed isn't going to sit in the barn doing nothing while waiting for Assault to show up for their match race showdown at Washington Park August 30.

The Calumet Farm's handicap star was entered in the $30,000 added Sheridan handicap at Washington Park today.

What Stars Did

By the Associated Press

Ted Williams, Red Sox—Drew his 118th and 119th walks, grounded into double play, flied out and grounded out.

Johnny Mize, Giants—Struck out twice, doubled to center, fouled out and flied deep to right field.

Lou Boudreau, Indians—Collected two singles, scored once and handled five chances cleanly.

Enos Slaughter, Cardinals—Singled to center and later scored the first St. Louis run, singled to right, grounded out and flied out.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers—Went hitless in four official trips against Phillies but scored one run, stole a base and handled 10 chances.

Cup Field Is Cut, Lombardo Starter

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—The starting field for the 40th running of the International Gold Cup motorboat regatta on Jamaica bay tomorrow was reduced to ten today when ten other entrants were disqualified for various reasons.

Officials said the reduction of the field eliminated the necessity for qualifying heats. As a result, all ten boats will participate in three heats, with the winner to be determined on a time basis.

Defending champion Guy Lombardo of Freesport, N. Y., was listed as a definite starter with his Tempo VI. Others scheduled to start are Albin Fallon's Miss Great Lakes, Herb Mendelson's Notre Dame, the Dossin brothers' Miss Peps and Tom and Howard Hughes, Dukie, all from Detroit; Joe Van Bierck, Jr.'s Aljo V and Henry M. Slocum's Trudy, both from Freeport; Dr. W. G. Robinson's Mr. Dockit of Alexandria Bay, N. Y.; Rober Bogie's Blitz II of Brooklyn, and William Cantrell's why worry from Louisville, Ky.

Ex-Marquette Grid Star Joins Oshkosh

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 9 (AP)—Bill McDonald, former Marquette University guard and veteran national basketball leaguer, signed a contract with the Oshkosh All Stars today for the 1947-48 season.

Prior to joining the all stars last January McDonald saw action with the Sheboygan Redskins and the Chicago American Gears, also of the National League.

Promoter Tries To Halt Fight as Greco Is Beaten

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 8 (AP)—Cosby Linson, 149½, New Orleans welterweight, won a 10-round unanimous decision over Johnny Greco, 150, Montreal, tonight. In the final round promoter Louis Messina jumped into the ring and attempted to break the fighters, saying Linson's eyes were cut and the bout should be stopped. Messina was removed from the ring and the fight continued.

After the fight Chairman Lloyd J. Landry of the Louisiana Boxing commission announced the commission had "revoked Messina's license pending further investigation" of the incident.

A spokesman for Messina told newsmen the promoter thought the tenth round had ended and merely jumped into the ring to congratulate Linson, who had been considered the underdog.

Britain Set to OK Marino Go for Title

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Britain's boxing board of control announced today it would recognize a bout between Dado of Honolulu and either Rinty Monghan of Ireland or Maurice Sandeyron of France as a world flyweight title match.

The B. B. B. C. lifted the flyweight crown from Jackie Paterson of Scotland for his failure to defend it against the Hawaiian challenger.

Suffolk Trainer Suspended After Stimulant Report

Trainer Eddie Yowell was under suspension today at Suffolk Downs and horses under his care were banned from racing as a result of a positive finding by state chemists of stimulation of Blue Gyp, winner of Monday's second race.

According to the chemists' report analysis showed presence of a stimulant of the nature of benzedrine after Blue Gyp won to pay $15 for $2. The case is under investigation and has been referred to the Mass. Racing Commission.

RETAINS GOLF TITLE

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP)—Miss Gertrude Gadbois of Manchester, defending New Hampshire State Women's golf champion, today retained her title by defeating Mrs. Ann Morrill of Concord, 2 and 1, in the final 18-hole match at the Country Club.

NAME NEW SITES FOR HEARST SWIM

The Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser "Learn to Swim" program moves to new locations on Monday. The new sites of the FREE swimming lessons are Sunset Pond, Braintree, and Lake Massapaug, Sharon. The courses are being conducted with the full, cooperations of the Red Cross, the Mass. Humane Society and the Mass. Youth Committee.

Instructors Joe Baldwin and Johnnie Temple will continue at the above locations from Monday, Aug. 11 to Aug. 23. The swim professors hold life saving classes from 10-12 in the morning and beginners classes from 2-4 in the afternoon.

Prata vs. McGrath In NEAAU Swim Meet at Scituate

Two late entries, one from Joe Prata, Providence, and the other from Bob McGrath, Winchester, have added assurance that the NEAAU 220-yard freestyle championship which will be raced at the Scituate Harbor Yacht Club pool tomorrow afternoon will be one of the most highly competitive races of the season.

Last year Prata was winning consistently throughout New England. This year, however, he has met stern competitors like Bob McGrath. Twice Bob has beaten Joe over the 100-yard distance. One of McGrath's wins was at Lexington, the other at Brockton.

This race at Scituate will be a real test as it is over the strenuous quarter-mile course.

There will be 56 swimmers at the Scituate competition.

Doerr Homers in 8th for Sox Lead

YANKS--SOX PLAY BY PLAY

FENWAY PARK, Aug. 9—David "Bo" Ferriss (9-10) was Manager Joe Cronin's mound selection to oppose the Yanks' leading hurler, Allie Reynolds (14-6), in the second game of the three-game series here this afternoon. Close to 25,000 were on hand at gametime.

Again Joe DiMaggio was missing from the Yanks' lineup and Bucky Harris moved catcher Aaron Robinson into DiMag's cleanup slot in the batting order.

Mgr. Bucky Harris announced today that Jo DiMaggio, who has been out of the Yankee lineup since last Sunday, may rejoin the team for tomorrow's game with the Red Sox.

Harris said DiMaggio has been in his New York hotel all week, except for visits with Dr. Jules Gordon to take treatments for corn neck muscles. Harris added: "DiMaggio has not been in a hospital at any time and we hope he will feel well enough to join the club tomorrow. If he doesn't play against the Red Sox he will be back in the lineup for Monday night's game with the Athletics at New York."

Keller Out Until Spring

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 9 (AP)—Charley Keller, New York Yankee outfielder, announced today he will not play the remainder of the season, including the World Series if his team wins the American League pennant.

Keller, recuperating at his home in Frederick from a recent back operation, told sports editor Dick Kelly of the Hagerstown Daily Mail:

"I expect to be back in action by next spring. Rest and conditioning during the off season should get my back into shape."

The slugging outfielder is wearing a brace after removal of a disc from his spine in New York City.

Braves Seek Fifth Straight

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Aug. 9—Johnny Sain, whose previous luck in the Polo Grounds had all been bad, went looking for his 16th win of the season as the Braves encountered the Giants and Dave Koslo (13-6) here before 15,000 this dark, but dry, afternoon.

Sain has been kayoed twice by the Giants on their home grounds, but Sain, with five straight wins behind him, was expected to be more difficult on this occasion. The Braves were looking for their fifth straight win. Despite a sorry Western trip, the Tribe remains in contention for the N. L. pennant, only eight games back of the Dodgers.

FIRST INNING

BRAVES—Holmes singled. M. McCormick flied to Gordon. Litwhiler walked. Elliott singled, scoring Holmes. F. McCormick was purposely passed. Ryan hit a home run, scoring behind Litwhiler, Elliott and F. McCormick. Koslo was replaced by Beggs. Fernandez singled. Rigney threw out Camelli. Sain grounded to Rigney. FIVE RUNS.

GIANTS—Rigney fanned. Kerr grounded to Ryan. Thomson doubled. Mize singled scoring Thomson. Marshall popped to Ryan. ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING

BRAVES—Holmes singled. M. McCormick was safe at first on Lohrke's fumble. Hopp batted for Litwhiler and forced M. McCormick, Rigney to Kerr. Elliott forced Hopp, Kerr to Rigney, Holmes scoring. F. McCormick flied to Gordon. ONE RUN.

GIANTS—M. McCormick moved over to left and Hopp went to center for the Braves. Elliott threw out Cooper, Gordon lined to M. McCormick. Lohrke flied to Holmes. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

BRAVES—Ryan fanned. Lohrke threw out Fernandez. Camelli singled. Sain forced Camelli, Kerr to Rigney. NO RUNS.

GIANTS—Beggs grounded to Ryan. Rigney fanned. Kerr flied to Hopp. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

BRAVES—Holmes singled. M. McCormick sacrificed, Mize to Rigney who covered first. Hopp flied to Gordon. Elliott fouled to Lohrke. NO RUNS.

GIANTS — Thomson singled. Mize flied to Holmes. Marshall singled. Cooper singled, scoring Thomson and was out trying to stretch it, M. McCormick to Ryan. Gordon fanned. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING

BRAVES — F. McCormick singled. Ryan sacrificed, Lohrke to Rigney who covered first. Kerr threw out Fernandez. Camelli grounded to Mize. NO RUNS.

GIANTS — Sain tossed out Lohrke. Beggs singled. Rigney flied to M. McCormick. Kerr forced Beggs, Elliott to Ryan. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING

BRAVES—Lohrke threw out Sain. Holmes flied to Gordon. Lohrke threw out M. McCormick. NO RUNS.
